Our Future

Each year in the Territory we see plenty of opportunity and innovation for Investors, explorers, producers, contractors and service and supply companies associated with the energy industry. The industry supports wider community benefit, bolstering indirect local business through its development. It's an exciting time to be in the Territory to witness the diverse transformation this will bring to support the growth and sustainability of the NT energy industry.

Its encouraging to note that Australia is on the way to becoming a major player in the international LNG market and the Territory is building its capacity to become a recognised global oil and gas hub. The NT now supports four LNG trains from Darwin including the INPEX operated Ichthys LNG project, Darwin LNG and Prelude FLNG facility with significant opportunity for additional processing facilities to be developed over the coming decade. These major projects have enhanced the growth of expertise in the local service and supply chain and infrastructure required to ensure our jurisdiction is well positioned for future development.

The potential for the growth of the onshore industry in the Territory is remarkable and has been recognised as an unrivalled global precedent, rich in resources and prospective opportunity. Over the coming years the industry will see world-class investment in the sector through exploration and production of unconventional oil and gas. Forecasts indicate that as the industry grows, the Northern Territory will see game-changing economic growth.

With a positive decision to proceed with the development of the onshore gas industry, it is important that the industry, government and supporting businesses work together to ensure safe and responsible outcomes to benefit the Territory.

Unprecedented interest into alternative energy continues to gain momentum with the innovative Sun Cable project looking to find a home in the Territory and attention to hydrogen development paramount. The ability to export our sunshine is a real possibility as NT emerges as an energy export powerhouse.

Industry support is essential for Energy Club NT to continue to deliver our services to our members and the wider business community. The focus on building a strong brand and reputable industry profile for Energy Club NT and our stakeholders has been a priority and will continue to be so as we build on our success. There are still many great initiatives and ideas to be explored to ensure we remain relevant and provide value to our sponsors and membership.

Capitalising on our success so far, the foundation has been laid for an industry focused organisation that has proved invaluable to the large number of national and multinational companies who have established operations and projects already underway in the Territory, as well as those who will establish projects in the years ahead.

A message from the CEO: Sonia Harvey

There is a clear movement in the industry for collaboration across the energy sub-sectors which will continue to become more prevalent as we move towards our energy future. Hydrocarbons will continue to play an important role in energy production, but the industry has showed a significant trend in adding alternative energy sources to the mix.

Adding into our already significant world class resources industry, continued exploration is underway showing prospective onshore and offshore gas development opportunities and unprecedented interest in innovative solar and hydrogen development. The expanding focus on the energy industry shows the Territory emerging as an energy export powerhouse.

We remain committed to delivering our services to the diverse energy sub-sectors to our organisation. I look forward to continuing to work with the Board to implement our strategy, engage our members and recognise our sponsors for their contribution to our success. I'm optimistic about the long-term future of the energy sector in NT, and the Club's commitment to support our members across the region.

As Founder and CEO of Energy Club NT, I'm committed to the delivery of our vision, mission and values – everyday, with every decision.
