

Energy Club NT Member Code of Conduct

Energy Club NT (ECNT) is committed to developing and maintaining high levels of respect and conduct. In so doing we aim to ensure a high level of respect and trust between our members and supporting businesses and for the industry as a whole

The ECNT Members Code of Conduct is set out below and all members will enjoy the same rights and privileges.

Members will demonstrate high standards of personal and professional conduct, including:

1. Complying with the laws of Australia or the country in which their work is performed, operating within the spirit of those laws and acting honestly and fairly in all business dealings.
2. Acting with integrity and honesty when participating in ECNT and associated activities.
3. Respecting the confidentiality of information which comes to them in the course of their participation in ECNT events and forums.
4. Not partake in the unsolicited use of ECNT contacts and ensure an acceptable level of respect of all members' privacy and confidentiality.
5. Not engaging in any activity or behaviour that brings the Association or its members into disrepute.
6. Paying any memberships fees or levies relating to their membership with ECNT promptly and in full.

All members must agree to be bound by this Code of Conduct and acknowledge that if upon investigation by the Association they are found to be in serious breach of the Code their membership may be terminated.
